

2016 Spring Online Professional Development Course

Integrating Technology into the Writing Process

Focusing on the ways in which technology can be purposely woven into the current process of teaching writing, this online course will help teachers have better success in meeting course objectives, addressing Common Core standards, AND improving student engagement with writing.

This online professional development opportunity will support teacher practice immediately by providing opportunities to identify, implement, and troubleshoot technology and writing strategies. This class is asynchronous and open to all teachers from kindergarten to college.

HSU Extended Education Units Offered:

The cost for professional development unit credit is $80 for 1.0 unit. Information for unit registration will be emailed as confirmation upon receipt of course registration. Unit registration form is available online through HSU College of Extended Learning at <http://www2.humboldt.edu/extended/registration.html>

Humboldt State University
1 Harpst Street
Bret Harte House (BHH)
House 52
Arcata, CA 95521

707.826.5109 (p)

707.826.5099 (f)

www.redwoodwp.org

Dates:

Spring 2016 Semester

Location:

Online

Fees:

$100 (Does not include cost of unit)

Registration:

Please visit the Redwood Writing Project website to register at www.redwoodwp.org